INTRODUCTION

- A human body is all about blood, life is dependent on blood, over one hundred million units of blood are donated each year throughout the world. Blood donation is very essential for saving lives our website is all about blood donation, mostly it will guide you about how, when and where blood needs to be donated. In today's world people are quite self centered and they do not think about other's life when it comes to donate blood, but they don't get the fact that they can be next in line , waiting for someone to donate them the blood , so basically awareness about blood donation needs to be channelized. Therefore our website will make people aware about what blood donation actually means and how important it is for the world..
